Question 1 Passage A : Prose

The following excerpt is from part of the opening address of the former Hon. Acting Prime Minister, the late Dr. Senipisi Langi Kavaliku where he addressed the issue of change in Tonga.

A TIME OF CHANGE

. . . .

The socio-political and economic situation – let alone the issue of our spiritual life – places us in a mood of anxiety and doubt on the one hand and challenge and hope on the other. In despair we blame new forces, overseas trained scholars, the so-called elite, the TV and video, alcohol, drugs, night clubs, breakdown of traditional family control etc.

5 Again in despair we blame the King and the Royal Family, the chiefs, the ministers; the heads of departments; the church leaders and well-to-do: we blame things palangis; our parents, our past and our society.

But we never blame ourselves. We have never taken the time to look at the total situation and at our own actions and the role we had played and are playing. Perhaps the humourist P.J.O'Rourke was correct:

> “Because the enormous uncertainty of life has been so padded for so long, we’ve forgotten . . . . . (what it’s like to be human), . . . . . And let’s not kid ourselves: An economic pinch doesn’t bring out the best in anybody.”

And at the end President Bush I believe was right when he stated

15 “People think the problem in our world is crack, or suicide, or babies having babies. Those are symptoms. The disease is a kind of moral emptiness.”

Tonga is at a time both of anxiety and despair and of opportunity and hope. It is not a totally new situation for Tonga nor for us. Where it is new is in the new level of seemingly insurmountable problems created by such tremendous amount of profound changes and even more potentially profound changes they will bring.

20 Between anxiety and hope, doubt and opportunity I prefer to look at the whole plethora of changes and potential changes as a challenge – as a time “for thought and reflection and times for initiative and action” it is not the time to despair. [Abridged]

Question 1 Passage B: Poetry

This poem is about the poet's advice to his son.

IF

‘Brother Square-Toes’ – Rewards and Fairies

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;

If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about, don’t deal in lies,
Or being hated, don’t give way to hating,
And yet don’t look too good, nor talk too wise:

If you can dream – and not make dreams your master;
If you can think – and not make thoughts your aim;

If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two imposters just the same;

If you can bear to hear the truth you’ve spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,

If you can watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build ‘em up with worn-out tools:

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;

If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the Will which says to them: ‘Hold on!’

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with Kings – nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much;

With sixty seconds’ worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that’s in it,
And – which is more – you’ll be a Man, my son!

Rudyard Kipling 1865 – 1936

pitch-and-toss – is a game
