QUESTION 1
INTERNATIONAL CO-OPERATION IN THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

• LEAGUE OF NATIONS
• UNITED NATIONS
• COMMONWEALTH OF NATIONS

A. MULTIPLE CHOICE ITEMS (7 MARKS)

Use Resources A and B and your own knowledge to answer the questions that follow. CIRCLE the letter of the Best answer.

Resource A

The idea of the League was grounded in the broad, international revulsion against the unprecedented destruction of the First World War and the contemporary understanding of its origins. This was reflected in all of Wilson’s Fourteen Points, which were themselves based on theories of collective security and international organization debated amongst academics, jurists, socialists and utopians before and during the war. After adopting many of these ideas, Wilson took up the cause with evangelical fervor, whipping up mass enthusiasm for the organization as he travelled to the Paris Peace Conference in January 1919, the first President to travel abroad in an official capacity.

Resource B

The term "United Nations" was then coined in 1942 by Winston Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt in the Declaration by United Nations. This declaration was made to officially state the cooperation of the Allies (Great Britain, the United States, and the Union of the Soviet Socialist Republics and other nations) during World War II.

The UN as it is known today however was not officially founded until 1945 when the Charter of the United Nations was drafted at the UN Conference on International Organization in San Francisco, California. The conference was attended by 50 nations and several non-governmental organizations - all of which signed the Charter. The UN officially came into existence on October 24, 1945 after ratification of the Charter.

The principles of the UN as explained in the Charter are to save future generations from war, reaffirm human rights, and establish equal rights for all persons. In addition it also aims to promote justice, freedom, and social progress for the peoples of all of its member states.

Use Resources A and B and your own knowledge to answer the questions that follow.

1. With reference to Resource B, what was one benefit of Chiang acquiring Taiwan?

2. According to the Resource B, how did the Communist Party win the support of the people in the rural areas?

3. With reference to Resource B, what was a weakness of the KMT?

4. Briefly explain the message portrayed by Resource A.

Following the war with Japan, Chiang acquired Taiwan from Japan and renewed his struggle with the communists. However, the corruption of the KMT, as well as hyperinflation as a result of trying to fight the civil war, resulted in mass unrest throughout the Republic and sympathy for the communists. In addition, the communists’ promise to redistribute land gained them support among the massive rural population. In 1949, the communists captured Beijing and later Nanjing as well. The People’s Republic of China was proclaimed on 1 October 1949. The Republic of China relocated to Taiwan where Japan had laid an educational groundwork.

<td>Stalin was convinced that Russia risked eventual invasion by the West to destroy Communism. Industry and agriculture had to be transformed and they had to be modernised quickly. The New Economic Policy, introduced by Lenin in 1921, had outlived its usefulness. It could not bring the needed changes rapidly enough. Russia had to undergo massive and forced industrialisation and the peasants would have to be brought together in huge collective farms and taken off their tiny, privately owned plots. When Trotsky had urged this very policy in the mid 1920s Stalin had opposed him. Now Stalin was to carry out his rival’s policies – but in his own much harsher way.</td>

<td>Kennedy’s greatest foreign policy failure and greatest foreign policy success both involved one nation — Cuba. In 1961, CIA-trained Cuban exiles landed in Cuba at the BAY OF PIGS, hoping to ignite a popular uprising that would oust Fidel Castro from power. When the revolution failed to occur, Castro’s troops moved in. The incident was an embarrassment to the United States and a great victory for Fidel Castro. In October 1962, the United States learned that the Soviet Union was about to deploy nuclear missiles in Cuba. Kennedy found this unacceptable. He ordered a NAVAL “QUARANTINE” OF CUBA and ordered Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev to turn his missile-carrying boats back to the USSR. Any Soviet attempt to penetrate the American blockade would be met with an immediate military response.</td>

The outbreak of the Korean War boosted Japan's economy as Japan became the supplier of goods needed for war. Payments from the US government bolstered the Japanese economy, amounting to 27 percent of Japan's total export trade. But a more permanent boost to Japan's postwar industrialization was a government ministry: the Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MITI). In 1951, MITI established the Japan Development Bank, which supplied private industry with low-cost capital for long-term growth. MITI stimulated cooperation between government and private industry. Here was government involvement in the economy that US conservatives had no taste for. MITI coordinated various industries to national production goals, and MITI had the power to promote industries it believed promising. A writer contributing to Wikipedia commented that, “The low cost of imported technology allowed for rapid industrial growth. Productivity was greatly improved through new equipment, management, and standardization.

27 September 2013 – Taking the podium at the United Nations General Assembly today, King Tupou VI of Tonga and Prime Minister Tuilaepa Lopesoliai Sailele Malielegaoi of Samoa joined leaders of other small island developing States (SIDS) in urging that sustainable development agenda address climate change in a way that is integrated throughout its targets.

“Tonga joins SIDS in calling for the inclusion of climate change as a cross-cutting issue of sustainable development goals (SDGs),” King Tupou said in reference to the environmental and anti-poverty targets now under discussion for implementation following the 2015 deadline of the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs).

“Oceans are a thematic priority and should also be prominently featured in the SDGs and post-2015 agenda,” he added. Commending UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon for his initiative to convene a high-level climate change summit in 2014 and urged leadership from developed countries to “enhance their mitigation ambition.”
