SECTION A: Language for Social Interaction

MULTIMEDIA

Choose Only ONE of the component of multimedia that you studied in class to answer the questions. Write at least 100 words.

You will choose from either:

1. a formal Debate
2. a formal Interview,
3. Note – taking or
4. Highlighting

Use the text given below to answer the questions given in your chosen component.

You want higher wages, better pensions, shorter hours, more government spending, more investment, more – more – more – more. But where is this ‘more’ to come from? There is no more. There can be, but there will not be, unless we all produce it. You can no more separate pay from output than you can separate two blades of a pair of scissors and still have a sharp cutting edge. And here, let me say plainly to trade union leaders, you are often your own worst enemies. Why isn’t there more? Because too often restrictive practices rob you of the one thing you have to sell – your productivity.

(NZQA: 1996 An excerpt from a speech 1995 by Margaret Thatcher former PM of Britain)
1. Debate
   Design an open debate script using the information given to show the arguments presented by both the opposing sides.

2. Interview
   Devise appropriate questions and answers on an interview with the Prime Minister on the purpose of her speech.

3. Note-taking
   Create significant notes from the text using a clear and concise style of note-taking.

4. Highlighting
   Use your pen to highlight the important ideas of the speech and then discuss the reasons for their importance. Use a concise and tidy form of highlighting on the given text for clarity.

SECTION B: Language for Information

ANALYSIS OF TEXT

Read Passage A and Passage B carefully, and answer ALL the questions following EACH passage.

Passage A: Prose

Celebrate the Values and Victories

1 All over the world, in every country, in every culture, people stop working on certain days during the year and take time to celebrate. We hold elaborate parades to shower the hometown championship team with cheers of appreciation. We set off fireworks to commemorate great historic victories. We convene impromptu ceremonies in the company conference room to rejoice in the award of a new contract. We attend banquets to show our respect for individuals and groups who’ve accomplished the extraordinary. We get together with colleagues at the end of a grueling work session and give each other high-fives for a job well done. Even in tragic times we come together in remembrance and song to honor those before us and to reaffirm our commitment.

Why? Why do we take time away from working to come together, tell stories, and raise our spirits? Sure, we all need a break from the hectic pace of our jobs, but celebrations are not trivial excuses to goof off. Celebrations are among the most significant ways we have to proclaim our respect and gratitude, to renew our sense of community, and to remind ourselves of the values and history that bind us together. Celebrations serve as important a purpose in the long-term health of our organization as does the daily performance of tasks.

Besides, who really wants to work for a place that has no ritual or ceremony – a boring place that celebrates nothing? David Campbell, senior fellow with the Center for Creative Leadership, says it well: “A leader who ignores or impedes organizational ceremonies and considers them as frivolous or ‘not cost-effective,’ is ignoring the rhythms of history and our collective conditioning. [Celebrations] are the punctuation marks that make sense of the passage of time; without them, there are no beginnings and endings. Life becomes an endless series of Wednesdays.”

Passage B: Poetry

LEISURE

What is this life if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and stare.

No time to stand beneath the boughs
And stare as long as sheep or cows.

No time to see, when woods we pass,
Where squirrels hide their nuts in grass.

No time to see, in broad daylight,
Streams full of stars, like skies at night.

No time to turn at Beauty’s glance,
And watch her feet, how they can dance.

No time to wait till her mouth can
Enrich that smile her eyes began.

A poor life this if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and stare.

William Henry Davies 1871 – 1940

5. Identify a dominant language feature which recurs throughout the poem.

6. Describe the main purpose of the poem.
7. Describe the meaning of the phrase, “No time to turn at Beauty’s glance” (line 9).
